From Marshall To Moussaoui:

Federal Justice in the Eastern District of Virginia

By Well-Known Author John O. Peters

From Marshall to Moussaoui: Federal Justice in the Eastern District of Virginia artfully traces the precedential decisions of a court that has made a rich contribution to the history of our Constitution. John Peters' book is well-researched, informative and quite entertaining.

Antonin Scalia, Associate Justice United States Supreme Court

John O. Peters' work entitled From Marshall to Moussaoui: Federal Justice in the Eastern District of Virginia is quite an accomplishment. Through the historical lens the reader quickly is transported to the times of the anecdotes that are sprinkled liberally across the pages. The U.S. District Court comes alive as Peters focuses the reader's attention on the brilliance – and the human foibles – of the jurists who have presided over cases that range from treason and trespass, to liquor and libel, and from civil war to civil rights. Collectively, the judges, lawyers and litigants personify the history of this important court of justice. It is also a rich and robust reflection of the history of America.

Gerald L. Bailey, Director and CEO of The Miller Center University of Virginia Governor of Virginia (1986-90)

Rehabilitation Effort (SCORE), a program that diverts substance abusers into intensive supervision and treatment in lieu of incarceration for federal supervised release violations. Members serving with Judge Dohnal on the administrative team write, "His collaborative spirit facilitates the discussions of our diverse group, which includes prosecutors, defense attorneys, probation officers, and a treatment provider. Judge Dohnal treats each participant with respect and civility. He inquires about their families, praises their sobriety, and expresses regret when they relapse."

Another SCORE volunteer comments, "he is compassionate and he cares deeply about the welfare and progress of each participant in the program. I have been touched on many occasions when he goes out of his way to be a cheerleader for the participants and, when the circumstances are unclear, to give the benefit of the doubt.

His leadership with the Drug Court is all about changing peoples lives, ending the cycle of repeated drug use and incarceration. Though great credit is due to Judge Dohnal for these results, he is always humble and modest, deflecting the credit to others."

The individual nominating Judge Dohnal sums it up by stating, "Judge Dohnal not only "exemplifies the conduct and high ideals embodied in the Bar's Principles of Professionalism," he helped re-vamp the Code of Conduct while serving as Chair of the Virginia State Bar Special Committee to Study the Virginia Code of Professional Responsibility. Judge Dohnal runs a respectful and civil courtroom, always infused with a touch of humor. He is admired, respected, and liked by all members of the bar and members of the judiciary."

Bar's Administration of Justice Committee members meet

In its continued effort to promote the administration of justice in the Richmond area and to facilitate cooperation between the bench and the bar, the Bar's Administration of Justice Committee recently concluded its annual interviews with the Honorable Judges for the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, Richmond Division and the Judges of the City of Richmond. As in years past, the Judges were gracious with their time and spoke with candor to Committee members regarding the Court's work and the performance of the bar in their courtrooms.

United States Bankruptcy Court The Honorable Kevin R. Huennekens and Keith L. Phillips

Judge Huennekens and Judge Phillips serve on the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of Virginia (Richmond Division). Judge Huennekens and Judge Phillips were very complimentary of the bar in general and noted the continued high level of professionalism of attorneys practicing before them. The Judges stated that in general the lawyers do a good job of handling matters before the Bankruptcy Court.

The Judges noted that several changes to the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure went into effect on December 1, 2013. These changes include amendments to Rules 1007, 4004, 5009, 9006, 9013 and 9014. The amendments, including Advisory Committee notes and a red-lined version can be found on the Administrative Office of the United States Courts ("AO") website at: <http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/CDOC-113hdoc28/pdf/CDOC-113hdoc28.pdf>.

There also have been several changes to the Official Forms, including Schedules I and J, and to the Bankruptcy Court Miscellaneous Fee Schedule, 28 U.S.C. § 1930, including a new fee for motions to sell property of the estate free and clear of liens under 11 U.S.C. § 363(f).

The Judges also wanted to notify the Bar that the Advisory Committee on Bankruptcy Rules has established a working group and is considering a National Mandatory Model Plan for Chapter 13 and associated bankruptcy rule amendments to implement the model chapter 13 plan. The working group is currently seeking feedback on the proposed model plan. The goal is to finalize a proposal for consideration by the Rules Committee so that they can be published for comment and go into effect in December 2014.

The Judges noted, bankruptcy filings in virtually all federal judicial districts nationwide continue a steady decline. Statistics released by the AO, which are accessible on the uscourts.gov Internet web site, provide information of interest. For the 12-month period ending September 30, 2013, bankruptcy filings declined throughout the country from 1,261,140 to 1,107,699, or by approximately 12 percent, over such filings during the same period in 2012, and declined from 1,467,221, or by approximately 25 percent, when compared with the same period in 2011.

For the 12-month period ending September 30, 2013, in the Eastern District of Virginia, total bankruptcy filings declined from 23,481 to 20,239, or by approximately 14 percent, over the same period in 2012, and declined from 26,504, or by approximately 24 percent, when compared with the same period in 2011.

Also, for the 12-month period ending September 30, 2013, bankruptcy filings in the Eastern District's Richmond Division declined from 7,691 to 7,011, or by approximately 9 percent, over such filings during the same period in 2012. When comparing these 12-month periods, the filings rate of decline was somewhat lower in the Richmond Division than for the Eastern District as a whole and the rate of decline in filings nationally.

Courts of the City of Richmond

The Honorable Bradley B. Cavado - Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of the City of Richmond

Judge Cavado serves as the Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of the City of Richmond. At the outset, Judge Cavado emphasized that the professionalism of the Richmond Bar remains at the highest level.

Regarding local practice and procedure, Judge Cavado reminds the Bar of the importance of delivering courtesy copies of briefs and memoranda to the judge's chambers if a hearing is imminent. Court files are electronic, and while the Clerk's office strives to have pleadings and other submissions scanned on the day of filing, a variety of circumstances may delay scanning. To safeguard against that potential time lag and ensure that the judge sees your brief before the hearing, the Judge Cavado recommends that, for briefs filed within five business days before a hearing, a courtesy copy be delivered to chambers with a cover letter identifying the date of the hearing to which it applies. Nothing in this recommendation, though, is intended to affect the time requirements for motions practice in Rule 4:15 of the Supreme Court of Virginia.

Judge Cavado also announced that there is a new guest Wi-Fi network in the John Marshall Courthouse that does not require a password or a user ID. The SSID broadcast name for the network is "guest-courts." The password-protected network remains "COR-Guests" for those users who want extra security. Lawyers had reported difficulty accessing the courthouse's protected guest Wi-Fi network because the password changes monthly. So now there is an open network for the convenience of visitors.

The Honorable Phillip L. Hairston – Chief Judge of the General District Court of the City of Richmond

Judge Hairston serves as the Chief Judge of the General District Court of the City of Richmond, sitting in the Court's Manchester location. He has handled both the Southside criminal and traffic dockets for the past eight months. The Southside traffic docket is primarily criminal-based offenses. Judge Hairston enjoys the variety provided by the traffic docket. He says his time spent as a former police officer, probation officer and intern in the Commonwealth Attorney's office have helped him greatly in his years on the bench.

The addition of Judge Cann to the Court this year has alleviated some of the caseload burden on the Judges of this Court, which now has seven of its eight seats filled. Judges Cann, Jamison, Cheek and Thorne-Begland handle the Northside criminal and traffic dockets, while Judges Taylor and Gaden continue to handle the civil docket from the John Marshall Courts Building. The Judges are working well together to handle rotations and the issues associated with some Judges having Chambers in two locations.

Judge Hairston has tremendous respect for the commitments of the parties, witnesses and attorneys that appear in his Courtroom and expects the attorneys and parties to show the same courtesies to each other. Judge Hairston cautions the Bar not to accept last minute representation of a client if the attorney cannot appear for an existing imminent trial date. Attorneys should notify the Court as early as possible of a conflict with a trial date and seek an appropriate and timely continuance. If timely notice is given of a conflict, the Court will typically grant a continuance, barring exceptional circumstances. The Court is mindful of not causing undue and unnecessary inconvenience to witnesses who take their time away from their jobs and homes to appear. Judge Hairston noted that the Court is understanding of emergency or unexpected situations that arise for attorneys that are unavoidable, such as being held over in a hearing in another Court, but urges attorneys to contact the Clerk's Office at the earliest opportunity to advise the Court. This proactive conduct is appreciated by the Court and is a part of the reputation of the members of the Bar who practice in his Court, a factor on which Judge Hairston places a great deal of importance.

with U.S. Bankruptcy and City of Richmond judges

Finally, Judge Hairston recommends that young lawyers who will be appearing in his Court talk to the Clerks and visit the Courthouse to learn first-hand the local procedures and expectations of the Bar.

The Honorable Richard B. Campbell – Chief Judge of the Juvenile & Domestic Relations District Court of the City of Richmond

Judge Campbell serves as Chief Judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District

Court of the City of Richmond. The J&DR courts have jurisdiction over all proceedings involving domestic violence and family abuse, as well as custody, visitation, support, control or disposition of a child who is abused, neglected, in need of services, abandoned, truant, a runaway, a delinquent, violates traffic laws, requires commitment for mental illness, or consent to medical treatment and all adults involved in these proceedings. As in the past two years, the Richmond City J&DR Court is hearing more adult cases than juvenile cases, a statistic which surprises many members of the Bar.

Judge Campbell reported that Judge Buis will retire at the end of 2014 and absent his vacancy being filled, beginning in October 2014, the Court will become a four judge court. Currently, every five weeks, each Judge serves a duty week. This schedule will inevitably change following Judge Buis' retirement.

The Court's docket remains busy. Judge Campbell complimented the members of the Bar that practice regularly before the Court. He reminds the Bar that decorum and civility in the courtroom continues to be important and the practice of law a privilege. Specifically, Judge Campbell suggested that attorneys with scheduling conflicts should notify the Court as soon as possible when they are unable to timely appear. He further encourages attorneys to maintain client control in the courtroom and relay to their clients the importance of consulting with their counsel prior to contacting opposing counsel or the Court.

The Court is interested in the opening of the new jail and particularly the alternative programs which will be offered. Additionally, the Court is an active participant in multiple teams addressing a broad spectrum of issues as they relate to juvenile justice and child welfare. The Court remains concerned about truancy in the City of Richmond and what it means for the schools and the city.

Judge Campbell wishes to remind the Bar that there are many opportunities for court-appointed and pro bono work in the J&DR Court. These opportunities present young lawyers with great opportunities to appear before the Court. The Court also shares information via Twitter (@OliverHillCtsBI) that many attorneys may find useful.

Volunteering is made easy with Pro Bono Promise

According to the Legal Services Corporation, on average, only one legal aid attorney is available for every 6,415 low-income people nationwide. By comparison, there is one private attorney providing personal legal services for every 429 people in the general population who are above the poverty line. In Virginia, over one million individuals fall below the poverty level, and 48% of these will encounter a legal problem in 2014. If left to obtain representation solely from legal aid organizations, many will either forgo legal representation or will be significantly delayed in receiving help. YOU can be part of the solution. With a small commitment of your time, YOU can actually make an impact in Virginia that will start to turn the tide for those disadvantaged among us. HOW can you make a difference?

Step up to the Pro Bono Promise, a firm-wide initiative that commits just 1 % of annual time to providing pro bono service. The 2014 Pro Bono Promise is accepting participant firms and law departments now. Since its inception, the Pro Bono Promise Pilot firms have provided thousands of pro bono service hours to individuals, families and nonprofits in this area, and we expect to exceed that amount this year with your help.

Providing pro bono service to eligible clients has never been easier. With the development of JusticeServer™, an on-line case management system and case referral service, any attorney can register to find the right opportunity to serve this community in need. On JusticeServer, there are over 10 different pro bono special projects with concise training, short engagements and pre-screened clients...ranging from a quick advice & counsel, legal document preparation, an administrative appeal to a short motions hearing. YOU choose how you want to volunteer, and the opportunities that match your interests are made available. From the filtered list of opportunities, YOU get to choose which one you accept (and WHEN), and with a few easy steps, you have all the information you need to provide the service.

For more information on how to join the Pro Bono Promise, how to register for JusticeServer and/or the next scheduled trainings, please contact Ali Fannon of the Greater Richmond Bar Foundation at afannon@grbf.org, or (804) 240-7822.
